PURPOSE

The use, transportation and disposal of pesticides within the California-Mexico border area creates the potential of pesticide episodes which can produce human health and environmental effects on both sides of the border.

The Pesticide Episode Response Plan is designed to be used by county inspectors who investigate episodes that occur within the border area.

The purpose of the Pesticide Episode Response Plan is to establish a system for exchanging data between the California Department of Pesticide Regulations, California Agricultural Commissioners and Mexican agencies to respond to pesticide episodes within the border area and to exchange information concerning episode investigations, sampling procedures and pesticide exposure.

BORDER AREA

The border area is designated as 2Km on either side of the international border. Additionally, pesticide episodes occurring anywhere in San Diego County that affect Mexican citizens will be investigated.

PESTICIDE EPISODE DEFINITION

An episode includes any event that poses potential or actual harm to humans, property, or the environment.

1. Human Effects episodes involve pesticide complaints, exposure and/or illness/injury to people. These can occur from pest control aircraft mishaps, pesticide handler accidents, exposure to residues in treated areas, from drift, etc.
2. Environmental Effects episodes involve contamination or damage to the environment in general. Examples are: fish or wildlife kills; marine, lake or stream contamination; groundwater contamination; air pollution or land contamination; illegal disposal of pesticides and pesticide containers; and illegal disposal of pesticide rinsate or unused pesticide dilutions.
3. Property Loss episodes involves contamination, damage or loss of plants or other property; loss or injury to livestock or domestic animals or bees.

There are other state and county agencies, in conjunction with their Mexico counterparts, that have primary authority for responding to, investigating and mitigating hazardous material episodes, such as spills and releases. These episodes are covered by emergency response plans implemented by those agencies.

California Environmental Protection Agency
Department of Pesticide Regulation

Cal/EPA's Department of Pesticide Regulation (DPR) has the primary responsibility for regulating all aspects of pesticide sales and use to protect public health and the environment. The Department's mission is to regulate the use and sale of pesticides while recognizing the need to control pests, while protecting public health and the environment and fostering reduced-risk pest management strategies.

Evaluating and Registering Pesticides

Before a pesticide can be sold or used in California, it has to be evaluated and registered by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) and DPR. Pesticide manufacturers are required to submit studies of toxicology, efficacy, phytotoxicity, environmental fate, product chemistry, and residue methodology to support the registration of each product. The testing data are evaluated by DPR scientists, including biologists, chemists, plant physiologists, entomologists, toxicologists, and physicians. Much evaluation and scrutiny focuses on the acceptability of studies and any potential for these substances to cause adverse health or environmental effects in order to ensure the proper, safe, and efficient use of pesticides.

Protecting Workers and the Public

DPR scientists evaluate potential workplace hazards of pesticides, reviewing studies on active and inert ingredients in pesticide products and on application methodologies. In addition, the Department conducts field studies each year to monitor pesticide exposure to workers in order to develop better methods to evaluate exposure potential and to mitigate potentially excessive exposure. DPR consults with physicians who can provide medical advice and assistance on pesticide exposures, and act as liaison with other practicing physicians regarding pesticide illness and treatment. The Department also participates in and evaluates the results of investigations of pesticide-related illnesses, with an emphasis on preventing occupational illnesses and injuries.

Environmental Protection and Pest Management Alternatives

DPR scientists monitor the environmental fate of pesticides, and identify and analyze chemical, cultural and biological alternatives for managing pests. In doing so, DPR's goal is to protect the public and the environment from pesticide contamination through hazard identification, preventive planning, and the enhancement of regulatory controls through encouraging development and use of pest control practices that are both environmentally sound and effective.

California Environmental Protection Agency
Department of Pesticide Regulation

Enforcing Pesticide Laws

To assure compliance with the nation's toughest pesticide laws, California has the largest enforcement organization in the nation. DPR oversees licensing and certification of dealers, pest control advisors, pest control businesses and applicators; has overall responsibility for pesticide incident investigations; administers the nation's largest state pesticide residue monitoring program; monitors pesticide product quality; and coordinates pesticide use reporting.

Enforcement activities in the field are largely carried out by the county agricultural commissioners and their staffs, with training, coordination, and technical and legal support provided by headquarters personnel, as well as DPR field staff in Anaheim, Fresno, Sacramento, Bakersfield, Ventura and Watsonville.

County of San Diego
Department of Agriculture, Weights and Measures
Pesticide Regulation Program

California has one of the strongest programs of pesticide regulation in the country. Although pesticides laws are established at the state and federal levels, the Agricultural Commissioner is responsible for their implementation.

San Diego County has a large and diverse agricultural community. The Pesticide Regulation program ensures that pesticides are used in an appropriate and responsible manner that protects the environment, the public and the employees of business that handle pesticides. Pesticides are utilized in agricultural areas, restaurants, hospitals, homes and many public buildings. This wide variety of uses means that inspectors must work with many types of business and the general public to ensure safe pesticide application.

San Diego County inspectors issue permits for the use of pesticides that are restricted and visit farms to be sure that pesticides do not endanger workers, the public and nearby sensitive habitats. Inspectors also regulate structural pest control companies, golf courses, and licensed pest control businesses.

Inspectors investigate complaints or reports of illness or unsafe working conditions where pesticides are involved. Notice of Violations and civil actions are pursued when pesticide handlers in San Diego County are found in noncompliance.

RECEIVING NOTIFICATION OF AN EPISODE REPORT

General Comments

The County Border Coordinator may receive notification of a border episode in any of the following ways: verbal or FAX notification from American or Mexican agencies, Doctor's First Report of Work Injury; citizen or employee complaint of unsafe conditions; government agency report; verbal or FAX notification from pest control operators, growers, or the news media.

Notification

All government agencies who become aware of a pesticide episode which has occurred in the San Diego County border area should notify the San Diego County Agricultural Commissioner Border Corodinator. Mexican agencies may use the form on page 17 of this manual. American agencies may use the form on page 18 of this manual.

The County Border Coordinator shall:

- Notify Proteccion Civil in Tijuana B.C. of all episodes occurring in the border area.
- Determine the type of episode and refer to the relevant heading(s) in the Table Of Contents of this plan.
- Notify the appropriate San Diego County, California and U.S. agencies.
- In all cases, notify the Deputy Agricultural Commissioner at the County of San Diego, Department of Agriculture, Weights and Measures.

Priority Investigation Status

Each border episode will be considered a priority investigation as outlined in the EPA/DPR/CAC Cooperative Agreement. The episode must be reported by the County Border Coordinator, to the Senior/Liaison Pesticide Use Specialist, DPR, immediately by telephone. DPR will assign the episode a priority investigation number.
